Tuesday flooding causes state of emergency, school closure

By Abigail Whitehouse

After several inches of rain fell on Lincoln County late Monday night and into early Tuesday morning, Lincoln County Emergency Management Director Don Gilliam announced at 9:29 a.m. that a state of emergency had been declared in the county due to the flooding.

Lincoln County School District began sending students home at about 10:15 a.m., warning parents that school buses that were unable to safely reach a home would return students to the school for pickup at a later time.

Lincoln County Director of Transportation Don Leigh said all students, aside from one, made it safely home on the school buses.

The one student, he said, had to be picked up from school, but Leigh was unsure whether that had anything to do with the weather or the fact that the student's parents were not available to pick him up until a later time.

A photo of a Lincoln County school bus traveling through high water on Harris Creek Road spread quickly on social media Tuesday morning and triggered multiple complaints about the danger students may have been put in and the fact that school had not yet been cancelled by that time.

Leigh said the bus driver was presented with a tricky situation and made the only decision that was available to him at that time.

"It's one of those things that once you get in there, you pretty much have to go on through because you can't back out," Leigh said.

He added that even on a beautiful day it is a tricky area to maneuver a school bus.

"He needed to call us because something like this is liable to happen in the future," he said. "But he knew the road and said it wasn't rushing water.

It was just water that had come over from the creek nearby and was sitting still

Man wanted in Lincoln found dead in Casey County

By Abigail Whitehouse
awhitehouse@centralkynews.com

LIBERTY — A man wanted in Lincoln County who fled from police multiple times was found dead in Casey County Friday, Casey County Coroner Curt Demrow confirmed.

James Blakey, 36, was found dead at a residence along Lee Graham Road, Demrow said. Cause of death was undetermined and an autopsy did not reveal any foul play, he said.

Lincoln County law enforcement officers attempted to arrest Blakey last week on warrants, including one for violating his parole, Lincoln County Curt Folger said. Blakey fled and escaped, until a constable spotted his vehicle on Wednesday.

Blakey

When officers attempted to arrest Blakey again, he led a 7-mile vehicle chase before fleeing on foot into a wooded area, according to Lincoln County Emergency Management.

Court records show Blakey, 36, was sentenced to five years in prison for theft by unlawful taking more than $500 and second-degree unlawful transaction with a minor. He was released on parole in September.

Demrow said without any evidence of trauma or foul play from the autopsy, investigators are now waiting on toxicology reports to determine what may have killed Blakey. Those reports could take two to three weeks to be finished, he estimated.

Lincoln school calendar amended; last day June 4

By Abigail Whitehouse
awhitehouse@centralkynews.com

STANFORD — The last day of classes in Lincoln County is set for June 4 after school officials approved what they hope to be the last amendment to the 2014-15 school calendar.

The revised calendar, which prevents the district from cutting more instructional days, was approved by the Lincoln County Board of Education during Monday night's special called meeting.

"Due to when the district had the scholastic review, we had to increase our instructional days," school administrator Bruce Smith said.

"With this proposal we're recommending that we keep those and amend the calendar by four days and that will keep us within Senate Bill 119."

Like many other school districts across the state, Lincoln County has taken a large number of weather days — 15 total this year.

Senate Bill 119 was recently passed by the Kentucky General Assembly and allows school districts the freedom to meet the minimum

New editor joins Interior Journal

STANFORD — The Interior Journal has a new editor after the previous editor stepped down to take a job as editor of the Jessamine Journal in Nicholasville.

Lincoln County resident Abigail Whitehouse began at the IJ on Monday. She is a resident of the Preachersville area who previously worked for the Casey County News in Liberty.

"I'm very excited to be working in my own community," Whitehouse said. "I look forward to working with the people of Stanford and Lincoln County."

Whitehouse is a graduate of Eastern Kentucky University who earned her bachelor's in English in 2012. She interned at the Franklin Favorite after graduating and then began working for the Casey County News in 2014.

"There was a lot of farm work in between," she said.

Whitehouse replaces Ben Kleppinger, who has served as editor of the IJ since April 2012. Kleppinger took over as managing editor of the Jessamine Journal, a sister paper of The Interior Journal, in March. He served as editor for both papers until Whitehouse was brought on board.

"Stanford and Lincoln County have become a home for me since I first arrived three years ago," he said. "I'll miss covering Lincoln County news, but I'm excited about the opportunity to lead the Jessamine Journal and I know Abigail will pick up right where I left off."

Kleppinger worked as a reporter and designer at the Advocate-Messenger in Danville before coming to the IJ. He is also a graduate of Eastern Kentucky University who received his bachelor's in journalism in 2009.

Lincoln constable injured in one-vehicle wreck Sunday

By Ben Kleppinger
bkleppinger@jessaminejournal.com

STANFORD — A Lincoln County constable suffered minor injuries in a one-vehicle wreck along U.S. 27 Sunday morning.

Constable Delbert Mitchell was southbound on the highway, heading toward Stanford, when his vehicle dropped off the side of the road, Lincoln County Sheriff Curt Folger said.

Mitchell over-corrected, traveled across the road and up onto an embankment, Folger said.

Mitchell needed "about five staples in his head" because his head struck the windshield of the the vehicle, Folger said.

The constable car suffered minor dents on its side and there was no damage done to property, Folger said.

Mitchell was back at work and driving his constable car this week, Folger said.

As firefighters look on, Constable Delbert Mitchell's cruiser is pulled from the side of U.S. 27 by a tow truck Sunday morning.

OTTENHEIM AREA NEWS

By Dorothea Schlappi

Hope everyone had a good holiday and spring break! The weather today, Sunday, is very beautiful, but the weather report is a rainy week ahead.

Our prayers go out to Velva and the Miracle family in the death of her husband, Ronnie, recently.

St. Sylvester had its Easter dinner and egg hunt on Sunday, April 12. It was good to get together again on this occasion as it was so pretty and warm.

The church lawn and cemetery at St. Sylvester looks so clean and nice, since it has been mowed twice now. We really appreciate the ones who take care of it.

I noticed the redbud trees are blooming and the dogwood trees are just about ready to open. It's a time of joy to see everything coming to life, and a very busy time for everyone to begin cleaning up and getting a new year of farming ahead.

To the Clarice (Denny) Summers family, we are thinking of you at this time on her passing. A lot of us remember Clarice as she and her family, Dewey Denny, lived on Kocher Road years ago, we grew up and attended Ottenheim School together. She will be missed by family and neighbors on Allen Road, where she resided.

We hear sirens and more action on 643 lately with police chasings, rescue squads, fire engines and etc. I never thought we'd see transfer trucks either on this winding road but things sure have changed. It's getting so we never know what will be next around the bend.

We are glad to welcome new neighbors that have moved in near Ottenheim. Hope you enjoy living in our neighborhood from Florida and from Waynesburg.

Snakes have been seen coming out and sunning so be on the look out, they can appear anywhere.

The moral mushrooms are up now and oh so good. They are like an egg hunt, hard to find.

Worry is interest paid on trouble before it is due. Have a good week.

Stanford Nazarene Church news

By Buford Edwards II

Our mission at Stanford Nazarene Church is to share the gospel message of Jesus Christ to all the world and to be a place of healing and hope to all in need. Come as you are, Jesus will meet you there.

This past Sunday morning the Lord showed up in a mighty way as we celebrated the joy of the Lord during a spontaneous testimony service. On Sunday night, Bro. Buford shared from Ecclesiastes 2, on the subject of the world never being sufficient to satisfy your needs.

Join us Wednesday nights at 7 p.m. for our "Book Club." We are currently working through a study on the Book of Daniel. Also, the youth have powerful services as well as classes for our children. It's a busy place on Wednesday, come check it out!

The church is working hard on year two of the "Five Year Plan." We are actively raising funds to purchase a church van and pay off the debt on the fellowship hall. If you would like to donate to the cause, you can drop off a donation at any service or even mail in a donation. Just remember to write "Five Year Plan," somewhere (memo field of check or envelope of cash) in order for it to be properly designated.

On Saturday, April 25, there will be an Interdenominational Men's Group Meeting from 9 to 11 a.m., hosted by Danville Covenant Church of the Nazarene. The speaker will be Kentucky District Superintendent, Dr. Brian Powell.

Spring Revival Services are just around the corner. Bro. Ron Taylor will be joining us on Wednesday, April 22 through Sunday, April 26. Services Wednesday through Saturday will begin at 7 p.m., and Sunday services will be at 11 a.m. and 6 p.m. Join us for this special time.

Monday, May 11 is the next Men's Group meeting. We will be gathering at the Stanford McDonalds at 7 p.m. to meet and fellowship. Come join us.

Mark your summer calendars now. The 2015 Pack the Pew Sunday will be Sunday, June 28, with morning services followed by a fellowship meal. Also, on Saturday, July 11, we will be having our 2015 Vacation Bible School. Backyard Ministries will also be providing food and inflatables immediately after the VBS program.

Are you looking for a home church? There are so many excellent churches in our area it may be hard to find that right "fit." If this describes you, stop by and visit us sometime. On Sunday mornings we follow the traditional format with Sunday School at 10 a.m. and worship at 11 a.m. On Sunday night, we begin at 6 p.m. and have an open forum for singing and testimony followed by the message by either Bro. Buford or Youth Pastor Dennis Hasty. On the first Sunday night of each month, we devote the entire service to singing and testimonies. Then on Wednesday night we carve out the 7 p.m. hour to Biblical teaching for adults, youth and children. Adults meet in the sanctuary in an informal setting, children in the Sunday School rooms, and the Youth alternate between the church and fellowship hall.

What's our dress code? Simply put, there isn't one. Come as you are, we just ask that you wear clothes. For more information about the church and different activities that are available, visit us on the web at www.stanfordchurchofthenazarene.com, and as always don't forget to "like" us on Facebook. Also, you can contact the church at (606) 365-1260 and leave a message. Pastor Buford or someone else will give you a call back.

Want to see a service? We have established a Youtube channel and all services are posted to the channel and linked to the Facebook page.

The church has an active food assistance program. If you know of anyone or have a need yourself, please leave a message at the church.

Fort Logan Hospital's laboratory receives accreditation from the College of American Pathologists

The laboratory at Ephraim McDowell Fort Logan Hospital has been awarded accreditation by the Accreditation Committee of the College of American Pathologists (CAP), based on the results of a recent on-site inspection.

"We are excited for our lab and proud to have received accreditation after our recent inspection," says Rick Scott, director of laboratory services at Ephraim McDowell Fort Logan Hospital. "Accreditation of our Laboratory lets our patients know that they can depend on us for quality laboratory services. It also is a great reflection of our Associates and their dedication to making excellence our only standard."

The recent on-site inspection was unannounced and included a surveyor who visited the laboratory and surveyed more than 1,100 standards. Accredited laboratories around the world strive to align their efforts with policy procedures now contained in the CAP standards to better ensure more accurate and timely test results.

During the CAP accreditation process, the inspector examined the laboratory's records and quality control of procedures for the preceding two years. The inspector also examined the entire staff's qualifications, the laboratory's equipment, facilities, safety program and record, as well as the overall management of the laboratory. This stringent inspection program is designed to specifically ensure the highest standard of care for the laboratory's patients.

The CAP Laboratory Accreditation Program, begun in the early 1960s, is recognized by the federal government as being equal to or more stringent than the government's own inspection program.

Highland United Methodist Church news

The Lord provided a beautiful sunny day on Sunday, April 12 at the Highland United Methodist Church. The Sunday School lesson "Love One Another" was a topic that brought out many comments from those present. Loving one another is such a vital part of this little church that it was not surprising that the lesson was only partially completed during class.

Prayer concerns added this week include the Joyce Sizemore Hampton family, the Dale Alford family, the Doris Scilley family, Carl and Joanne Elliott, Jimmy Oliver, and several unspoken requests. Thoughts were also with Doris Scilley, Daniel Scilley, and Dawn Denise and Scot Cheatham as they travelled to North Dakota to attend the memorial service for the late Rev. Don Scilley's mother.

Sunday school superintendent Beverly Young announced that two people had been buried in the Highland cemetery in the past week. He reminded the congregation that it was very important to have your heart prepared now, because you never know when the time will be to leave this life.

Happy Birthday was sang to a visitor who accompanied Joe Hutchison, Joe's uncle Tommy Hunstad. Two other visitors were welcomed to the service, Bro. Gene Bartle and his wife Barbara.

In Dawn Denise's absence, Ellen Hunkins and Rebecca Garcia took the little ones down for Children's Church. At Highland Methodist there are always those who step up and cover for those who cannot be at church. Sometimes words are never spoken, but the need is noticed by members and it is taken care of. This is just a part of the true family atmosphere of this church.

Bro. Quentin's sermon was entitled "The Easter Heart is our Heart." He began by asking, "Why do some people not come back to church after Easter?" Easter people are happy, thrilled, excited people. They get re-energized and re-newed about church on Easter. Look at little children on Easter. They get so excited! They might not yet know the real meaning of Easter but at least they are excited about SOMETHING.

That's what an Easter heart is. God wants us to have Easter hearts every day. Be excited! Easter is also about hope. Even on bad days or during hardships and heartaches, we have hope because of Jesus's sacrifice for us. Why do we come to church? We come to celebrate Jesus's resurrection every day; to be re-energized and re-newed.

The excitement and thrill is here at Highland United Methodist Church. There's nothing fancy here, but God is in this church! We have Jesus. Come join us on Sunday morning and see that life is good. The "one-room" Sunday School lesson starts at 10 a.m. and worship service begins at 11 a.m. A fellowship meal for everyone is shared every Sunday after the service.

Highland United Methodist Church prays that each person goes home from this church every Sunday feeling closer to God each week.

News from Bro. Kyle and Pleasant View Baptist Church

by Scena Ann Petrey

Bro. Kyle continued with his series of sermons entitled "The Ten Commandments" on Sunday, April 12. "Do Not Make an Idol" from Exodus 20:4-6 was the topic for the message Sunday. These verses deal with idolatry.

An idol is anything or anyone we put before God. Idolatry starts in a person's heart and continues to take over one's life. Bro. Kyle pointed out we are to "make much of God, not much of something He has given us." There is nothing wrong with a job, having money, loving a family, but don't be guilty of putting that before God.

While Moses was on the mountain receiving the 10 Commandments, Aaron, his brother, made a golden calf for everyone to fall down and worship.

Bro. Kyle emphasized three points about idols. The first point is that idols are made by human effort; the second point is man gives an idol credit for what God does; and the third point is setting up an idol creates jealousy.

In order to dethrone our idols, we have to destroy our idols, repent and turn to God. He must become our point of worship. To do this we must get in God's Word and stay there. God gives us options — we choose God or we choose Satan or idolatry.

There will be no choir practice during the month of April. Practice will resume May 6 at 7 p.m. when we begin working on the Patriotic service.

Operation Inasmuch is Saturday, April 18. All groups will meet for a worship kickoff at the church at 8 a.m. Contact Bro. Kyle for more information.

April 19 the 6:30 p.m. service will be a prayer meeting followed with the regular business meeting.

A "Great Awakening Revival" will be held at the Kings Mountain Memorial Community Center on April 26-29. The evangelist is Chuck McAlister. The revival is sponsored by the LCBA and other area churches; everyone is invited.

May 3 is Senior Adult Sunday. A senior breakfast at 9 a.m. will be followed by a short senior choir rehearsal, Sunday school, and worship at 11. Bro. Jerry will be bringing the message "Don't Worry... Be Happy".

Contact Bro. Kyle or Pam Cook is you wish more information about the 3 For 3.

The Broughtontown Community Center will once again host a fundraiser for the Eddie Hopkins Foundation "Families Helping Families" on Saturday, April 18.

The fish fry will be held at the center starting at 4 p.m. There will be a meal, door prizes, 50/50, Bluegrass/Gospel music, a gun raffle, and auction. Call Loren Simpson at (606) 355-2820 for more information.

The WMU is asking for your help collecting medicine bottles to send to Malawi. Please clean off the labels and place in the collection container at Pleasant View if you wish to participate in this project.

Danville Ave. construction begins April 24

By Ben Kleppinger
bkleppinger@jessaminejournal.com

STANFORD — Construction on a major water-line upgrade project is expected to begin as soon as April 24, bringing with it headaches for Danville Avenue traffic.

Stanford City Council members voted last week and earlier this month on the final bond ordinance and a handful of resolutions that were the final steps before construction on the nearly $1 million project could begin.

Salvisa-based Hubert Excavating can start 10 days after the final pre-construction meeting, which was held Tuesday.

“I’ve done a lot of downtown projects and they’re not fun,” Water Department Manager Ryan Owens told council members April 9.

Construction along Danville Avenue from Ky. 78 to U.S. 150 is expected to last through the summer. Most of the work can hopefully be accomplished before school starts back, but some work will likely still be left to do while students are in class and school buses are needing to get around, Owens said.

City Councilman Ronnie Deatherage, a former director of transportation for the school district, said he believes bus traffic could be affected by the roadwork more in the afternoons than in the mornings.

Hubert Excavating will be installing close to 2 miles worth of 6- and 8-inch water lines along the route, which will provide improved water pressure and quality to an estimated 500-600 households in the area.

The work will cause portions of Danville Avenue to be cut down to one lane at times, substantially slowing traffic flow along the busy street.

Officials are planning for the work to be done in time for the state to repave the entire road in the fall, before it gets too cold for asphalt plants to stay open.

“I just hope everybody will try to bear with us,” Mayor Eddie Carter said. “I hope everybody realizes that end of town ... needs it bad.”

Water Department Board Chairman Jack Withrow said it will be up to Hubert Excavating to decide which portions of the street are worked on first, so he couldn’t say exactly where along Danville Avenue construction would begin.

Stanford City Council members meet April 9 to give final approval for a bond ordinance allowing construction on a water-line upgrade project along Danville Avenue.

About $7,000 — that’s the amount of money each year that Lincoln County Jailer Rob Wilson has determined the county will save thanks to the $1,500 in equipment the detention center was able to purchase using inmate canteen funds.

“It saves the county money and it benefits the inmates, as far as time and work,” Wilson said. “What the people of Lincoln County are going to see is a lot more inmates out here doing work.”

Canteen funds are those gained when inmates purchase things in the store at the Lincoln County Detention Center.

“Before, it was contracted out. The contractors were making 72 percent of the profit and we were making 28 percent,” Wilson said. “When I came in, I said that’s unacceptable. I want it all.”

So, when the inmates purchase something through the canteen, that money in turn is used to fund things such as educational opportunities for the inmates.

“That money doesn’t belong to the county and it doesn’t belong to the jail. It actually belongs to the inmates,” Wilson said.

At the Lincoln County Detention Center, they are currently using the canteen money to foot the bill for the GED and other classes being offered.

“We are only one of six in the state that are GED test sites,” he said.

The canteen money can also be used to buy equipment that will be used by the inmates. That’s how the jail was able to obtain $1,500 in equipment for doing yard work — everything from push lawn mowers to rakes, weedeaters to brooms, and much more.

“It can save the county money. Hopefully it means a better-looking community, as far as cleanliness,” he said.

It’s also a benefit for the men and women working the crews in the county. Cleaning crews will be spread to properties across Lincoln County, although the mowing will be kept in Stanford.

“For the inmates, they get paid to work by the state. County inmates get time knocked off their sentence. It gets them out, it gets them busy,” Wilson said. “It helps calm some of the inmates, it gives them something to do, gets them active.”

Using the inmates saves the taxpayers money, Wilson said, and that’s key.

“We look at the budget everyday,” he said. “We’re always juggling stuff and finding ways to be creative.”

Hustonville amends Sanitation District contract

By Ben Kleppinger
bkleppinger@jessaminejournal.com

HUSTONVILLE — The Hustonville City Council approved April 7 an amendment to its contract with the Lincoln County Sanitation District to make sure grant funding for the west-side sewer project remains in place.

The amendment requires the city to disconnect water service to customers who fail to pay their sewer bills, Mayor David Peyton said.

The amendment was required by Rural Development in order for the sanitation district to receive the grant funding that’s making the sewer project possible, Peyton said.

Construction on the first phase of the sewer project is slated to begin this year and will bring sewer service to about 600 customers along the U.S. 127 corridor. Future phases are expected to expand service to all 1,700 customers of Hustonville Waterworks.

In other business, the council:

- approved promotion of Keith Pittman from fire department captain to assistant fire chief;
- declared a 1979 Ford fire engine as surplus and voted to ask for bids; and
- voted to request bids for blacktop repairs for areas damaged during winter weather.

AN ENCOURAGING WORD

Reality is important

By Howard Coop

From the old house on the north side of Hegira Ridge where I spent my childhood and youth, I could, and often did, look eastward and see a portion of the Appalachian Mountains on the eastern horizon. Morning after morning, I watched the sun rise above those lofty mountains to begin a new day, and I was awed by them. Later in life, I had the opportunity to live in those mountains new Black Mountain, the tallest peak in Kentucky, where, from a different perspective, I saw those mountains every day.

Then, in my younger days, I would occasionally walk out into the yard, or somewhere near the house, and discover a pile of fresh dirt, a molehill formed by a burrowing critter. At first, I didn't see any relationship between the mountains on the eastern horizon and the molehills in the yard. Then, I heard neighbors say that some people have the unique ability to "make mountains out of molehills," and I thought,

"How strange?"

As I grew older, I can to a better understanding of that strange statement. Two people, I learned, can look at a simple object under the same conditions and, because of perspective, see it entirely differently. That is why All Neuharth said, "The difference between a mountain and a molehill is your perspective," and that is why Rick Riordan said, "Humans see what they want to see." Perception, or the way things are viewed, means a lot. Under certain conditions, little things can look mighty big, and big things can look very little.

Some see the world through "rose colored glasses," and other see it through "eyes blurred with tears." Therefore, there can be a vast difference in what is perceived to be reality, but reality is important. So, sometimes the way we look at things needs to be changed. Therefore, George Bernard Shaw, the British dramatist, said, "Better keep yourself clean and bright; you are the window through which you must see the world.

Be prepared for spring tornadoes

By James A. Turpin, M.D.

Dr. Turpin

Spring weather in Kentucky can include anything from snow flurries to rain, and temperatures can get fairly cold to mildly warm. The weather can also bring tornadoes, which can appear suddenly and without warning, leaving a path of destruction and even death in some cases.

It's important for all families to be prepared for tornadoes by taking the following steps:

- Be familiar with what a tornado funnel cloud looks like.
- Prepare a family disaster plan and choose a location where you will seek shelter if a tornado is approaching. The best areas are basements or central rooms on the lowest level with no windows.
- Keep tree limbs and bushes trimmed, and promptly remove dead branches.
- Explain to your children the difference between a "watch" and a "warning." A tornado watch means that conditions are favorable for the formation of a tornado, and you should be prepared to seek shelter. A tornado warning means that a tornado has been spotted in your area, and you should seek shelter immediately.

Being prepared for a tornado will help to ensure that your family is protected against severe weather. One thing you can do to be prepared is to recognize the warning signs of an approaching tornado. Those signs include large hail, a loud roaring noise and a dark sky.

During a tornado watch or warning, make sure to keep all windows closed and stay away from outside walls and corners. If you are not in a safe place and have enough warning, you should quickly go to a structure with a firm foundation. When tornadoes are forecast and seem probable, try to avoid being outdoors or in a vehicle or mobile home. If you find yourself outdoors during an approaching tornado, look out for flying debris and avoid seeking shelter under bridges or overpasses. You will be the safest in a low, flat area.

After a tornado, avoid downed power lines, as they carry the risk of electric shock or electrocution. Do not return to a damaged home or area until authorities tell you it is safe to do so. Tornadoes can rip down trees, making roads impassable, or they can weaken bridges, leaving them on the verge of collapse. Consult authorities before consuming the drinking water. Exercise caution and good judgment in deciding when to return home.

Hafley honors brother with new Donate Life license plate

By Nancy Leedy
nancy@theinteriorjournal.com

STANFORD — Melanie Hafley of Stanford has proudly boasted of her love of the University of Kentucky over the years by putting UK specialty tags on her automobile.

But this year an even greater love has caused her to forego the UK plate.

Instead of the blue and white plate with the UK logo, Hafley’s vehicle will soon bear a blue, green and white license plate promoting the message “Organ, Eye, & Tissue Donation Saves Lives” in honor of her brother Mike Hamm of London.

Hamm is the picture of health today, but just over a year ago his health was deteriorating rapidly as he was in need of a double lung transplant. And because someone said “yes” when they obtained or renewed their license, Hamm got the double lung transplant and is fully recuperated.

As Hafley and all the Hamm family waited through Mike’s surgery at Jewish Hospital in Louisville, they were presented with discount DONATE LIFE. Melanie Hafley of Stanford had her big brother, Mike Hamm, at her side as she picked up a Donate Life plate in his honor Friday at the office of Lincoln County Clerk George O. Spoonamore IV. Hamm’s life was saved by organ donation as he benefited from the cause with a double lung transplant just over a year ago. The Donate Life tags, which have the phrase “Organ, Eye & Tissue Donation Saves Lives” along the bottom went on sale April 1 as part of National Donate Life Month.

offers on the new Donate Life tags that were to come out April 1, 2015.

Hamm was one of the first to buy one of the new tags and Hafley, while not among the very first, was in the early flux of purchasers. She visited the office of Lincoln County Clerk George O. Spoonamore IV this past Friday to pick up her tag.

“I just wanted to do something to honor my brother,” Hafley said. “And since April is National Donate Life Month, I wanted to go ahead and get the license plate now. My birthday isn’t until December, but I wanted to get the license plate early to possibly help make people more aware of organ donation.”

“It really can save lives,” she said, reaching out to pull her big brother in close.

“It really does,” Hamm said. “I wasn’t feeling very well over a year ago, but I feel great now.”

Hamm purchased his Donate Life tag in Laurel County on April 2, a day after they went on sale in Kentucky.

“Many people don’t know that there are lots of people who need organs,” said Hamm. “Anything we can do to educate the public and spread the message is a good thing.”

To further spread the message of organ donation, Hafley carries around green rubber organ donation wristbands to pass out to friends, family and anyone who would be interested in the cause.

And why are organ donors needed?

According to statistics on the Donate Life America website, there are currently nearly 124,000 men, women and children awaiting organ transplants in the United States.

A further breakdown of the Donate Life America statistics shows that there were (in 2013) 14,257 organ donors, 28,953 organ transplants performed and more than 47,000 corneas transplanted. More than one million tissue transplants are done each year and the surgical need for tissue has been steadily rising.

As of January 2015, 71,219 of the patients have been multicultural and approximately 1,911 have been pediatric patients.

For more information on becoming an organ donor, visit the Lincoln County Circuit Clerk at the judicial annex on Main Street, Stanford, or call (606) 365-2535.

To purchase your special Donate Life plate, visit the Lincoln County Clerk’s office on 3rd Street in Stanford, located in the old library building.

Rotary Club conducting Purple Pinkie Day

On Friday, April 24, the Stanford Rotary Club will be hosting a fundraiser at Stanford Elementary and the McGuffey Sixth Grade Center called Purple Pinkie Day.

On Purple Pinkie Day, children with a signed permission slip can exchange dollars to get their finger – or fingers – painted purple. The significance of the purple color comes from its use around the world to temporarily indicate which children have been vaccinated against Polio. Rotary International estimates that it costs about one dollar to immunize each child around the world.

Polio is a virus that causes limb paralysis in one out of every 1,000 children who get the virus. It also kills one out of every 27,000 children by paralyzing their lungs or stopping their ability to swallow. In 1988, an estimated 350,000 children were paralyzed by the Polio disease. Through massive vaccination campaigns across the world, that number was reduced to 650 by 2011. Currently the live polio virus is still active in three countries – Afganistan, Pakista, and Nigeria. Polio is very contagious. As long as Polio is present somewhere in the world, everyone is threatened by it. We hope to eradicate Polio in the same way we eradicated Smallpox – with universal vaccination.

Financial Aid Tip: Compare award letters to find best college deal

By now, most high school seniors should have completed the college application process and will begin receiving financial aid award letters. Seniors and their parents should compare those letters to find the one that offers the best financial aid package, the Kentucky Higher Education Assistance Authority (KHEAA) advises.

The letter will usually show the total cost of attendance — what that school costs for one year, including tuition, fees, room, meals, books, supplies, transportation and personal expenses.

It may also show how much the student’s family is expected to pay toward those costs, the expected family contribution (EFC). The EFC is subtracted from the total cost of attendance to get a student’s financial need. The letter will then list various sources of financial aid offered to pay for the costs not covered by the EFC. Students can accept or reject any or all of those proposed sources.

Students can also appeal the awards made if they believe their family’s financial circumstances have changed.

One consideration is how much of the aid being offered is in federal student loans, which will have to be paid back after a student finishes school. If the package includes federal loans and isn’t enough to pay all expenses, students may be looking at a private loan. Comparison shopping is a must in that case.

KHEAA is the state agency that administers the Kentucky Educational Excellence Scholarship (KEES), need-based grants and other programs to help students pay their higher education expenses.

To find links to other useful education websites, go to www.gotocollege.ky.gov. For more information about Kentucky scholarships and grants, visit www.kheaa.com; write KHEAA, P.O. Box 798, Frankfort, KY 40602; or call 800-928-8926, ext. 6-7372.

Wellness center to offer land- and water-based Boot Camps

McDowell Wellness Center is offering two sessions of its popular Boot Camp to get individuals in shape while losing weight.

A Morning Boot Camp begins on Monday, April 20, meeting from 5:20 to 6:20 a.m. and meets each Monday, Wednesday and Friday. This camp lasts six weeks and is comprised of exercises that are used to train military personnel. These include push-ups, sit-ups, jumping jacks, crunches, up-downs, bear crawls and running.

Water Boot Camp will begin on Tuesday, April 21, meeting from 6:45 to 7:45 p.m. on Tuesdays and Thursdays and 8 to 9 a.m. on Saturdays. This six week program is a perfect blend of cross-training that includes swimming, running in the pool, modified plyometrics in and out of the water, strength training and conditioning exercises.

The cost of the regular Boot Camp is $40 for Wellness Center members and $70 for non-members. The Water Boot Camp is $75 for Wellness Center members and $100 for non-members. Class size is limited, so advance sign-up is recommended. To sign up or for more information, please call (859) 936-9355 or stop by the Member Services Desk.

Lincoln County grew from coverage area into a home

By Ben Kleppinger
bkleppinger@jessaminejournal.com

When I started as editor at The Interior Journal in late April 2012, I wasn't entirely sure what to expect out of the job.

Kleppinger

I knew I enjoyed every aspect of journalism, from digging up a story idea to interviewing sources to taking photos to writing the story to putting it all together on the page. But even though I had at one point or another done each individual aspect of the job, I didn't really understand what it meant to put all the pieces together into a complete puzzle — to be the editor of a community newspaper.

Over my three years at the IJ, I grew from someone who once accidentally drove to Crab Orchard instead of Waynesburg into someone who can get to pretty much any community — whether its McKinney, Ottenheim, Rowland or Broughtontown — without the aid of GPS.

I grew from a reporter with questions into a community member with ideas. I learned to make connections and developed relationships with many people to an extent I had never done before in my reporting career. I like to think I helped uncover some mistakes, publicized some important stories and worked to make sure elected officials were held accountable and behaved transparently. I know I also made mistakes, and I'm very fortunate that the Lincoln County community has always been not only welcoming, but often forgiving, even to someone from another town, an "outsider."

In Lincoln County, for the first time in my career, my job grew beyond just being a job.

I've had jobs covering specific beats or coverage areas before. But as I got to know the people of Lincoln County, it went beyond being a "coverage area;" it became my home. I'll now be working a little more than half an hour away in Nicholasville — as managing editor of the IJ's sister paper, The Jessamine Journal — but I'll still be living in Stanford.

I'll still be rooting for the Patriots, watching double-features at the drive-in, taking scenic trips to the Halls Gap overlook, going out for Friday dinner at the Bluebird — I may even start canoeing on Cedar Creek Lake.

And I'll still be reading The Interior Journal; I just won't be writing it anymore.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Girl Scout Leader Appreciation Day on April 22

On April 22, 2015, Girl Scouts throughout the eastern half of Kentucky will honor their volunteers on Girl Scout Leader Appreciation Day during National Volunteer Week. Our dedicated leaders give of their time on a weekly basis to plan and lead fun, educational Girl Scout troop meetings and field trips. Whether it's teaching them about health and wellness, taking them on a caving expedition or out to the stables to learn to ride a horse, going to an international fair to experience different cultures, or creating a space rocket out of paper, a film canister and Alka-Seltzer, Girl Scout leaders have creative minds and caring hearts to share with the girls. They dedicate themselves year-round to helping girls grow into confident, resourceful young women.

I have seen first-hand the positive effect of volunteerism in Central Kentucky and how Girl Scouts and their leaders make a difference in our community every day. For those of you who have a girl in Girl Scouting, take a moment to think about her leader. Think about how at every meeting the leader is there to help your girl experience new challenges and gain new skills for the future. Think about the amount of time the leader devotes to preparing for the meetings while balancing family, work, and other time constraints. Remember your Girl Scout leader with a note of thanks or a personal phone call or greeting. We would like to recognize and thank all of our leaders in Pulaski, Russell, McCreary, Wayne, Clinton, Casey, Lincoln, and Rockcastle counties.

You truly make a difference in the lives of girls. I encourage more people to follow in your footsteps by volunteering with the Girl Scouts. If you are interested in joining the ranks of these incredible leaders please contact Terry Brewer at tbrewer@gswhc.org or by calling 606-878-8535. We are Girl Scouts of Kentucky's Wilderness Road Council, where we build girls of courage, confidence and character who make the world a better place.

Online April Fool's joke still going strong two weeks later

By Ben Kleppinger
bkleppinger@jessaminejournal.com

Most April Fool's jokes begin and end on April 1. The joke is assembled and delivered, people get tricked, people realize they've been tricked, and then everyone hopefully has a good laugh.

But in the case of one social-media April Fool's joke this year, the joke is still going — and no one knows what the punchline is going to be.

Over on Reddit — "the front page of the Internet" — administrators unveiled a special page (called a "subreddit") on April 1, named simply "The Button."

The Button is a fascinating mix of April foolery and psychological experimentation.

The basic premise is simple: There is a virtual button, which is tied to a timer that counts down from 60 seconds.

Every time the button is pressed, the timer resets to 60 seconds and begins counting down again.

What happens when the timer reaches zero? No one — except the creators of The Button — knows the answer.

Here's a catch: every Reddit user can only push the button once. And before you think of going off and creating 1,000 fake users in order to keep pressing the button over and over, here's a second catch: only users created prior to April 1, 2015, have the ability to press the button.

Whenever a user presses the button, that user is awarded "flair" that displays how low the timer had counted down to when he or she pressed the button. As a result, lower numbers are rarer and sought after by many users.

Reddit's user base of millions has gone bonkers over The Button.

Even though it's been more than two weeks since April Fool's Day, the timer has yet to count down to anywhere near zero — it hadn't even gotten below 30 seconds earlier this week.

The Button has been pressed by more than 727,000 different users and many more continue to frequent The Button's page but refuse to press, for a variety of alleged reasons.

There are whole religions — though I use the term loosely — that have sprung up around The Button, with groups forming factions with beliefs about The Button, what will happen at zero seconds, and what the underlying meaning could be.

There are groups who believe it is best to never press the button and keep their "non-presser" pieces of gray flair forever. Some believe Reddit will give them a reward if they watch the timer count all the way to zero without pressing the button.

Others have formed "The Knights of the Button," a group devoted to preventing the countdown from reaching zero for as long as possible. These users have split up into elite squads that are assigned to monitor the timer and spring into action when time starts running low.

By waiting until only a few seconds remain before each push, the Knights hope to extend the life of the timer by days or even weeks with a relatively small group of diehard fans.

There are also traitors amongst the various groups. There are (so people think) some users who claim to be ardent non-pressers who are actually just waiting until they can press the button with less than 10 seconds left in order to get a much coveted piece of red flair. And there are allegedly members of The Knights of the Button who plan to shirk their button-pressing duty at the last possible moment and allow the timer to expire.

Some users could be called the scientists of The Button — they have devoted hours of research and spreadsheet-building to the task of analyzing the patterns of when the button gets pushed, in order to project when different thresholds on the timer will arrive and predict the ultimate arrival of zero.

Many users have kept busy over the weeks of button-watching discussing the significance of the "Pressiah" — the last user to press the button before the timer eventually, inevitably expires.

There are also people posting fake announcements about changes in the rules in order to trick people into pressing The Button; poets writing lengthy poems about the button; conspiracy theorists attempting to prove that hackers will prevent the timer from ever reaching zero; philosophers debating if The Button is just silliness or has actual meaning; and newsletters dedicated to developments concerning The Button.

If all of this has you asking one question — "why?" — you are not alone. But as Internet culture has shown time and time again, the better question to ask these days is probably "why not?"

Sure, The Button on its own is a silly, meaningless joke. But what's not quite so silly — what's really quite impressive — is our ability as humans to build a whole community around a meaningless joke and turn it into a fascinating, entertaining enigma.

As the timer continues to count, it's not clear who the joke will be on or who will be laughing when — if? — zero is finally reached. It's also possible this joke is a little different than the rest. Maybe the point is to laugh at the dialogue, not the punchline.

there.”
The unnamed bus driver was left with no option other than to travel through the water, Leigh said.

“There was a church there, but that was not an option as far as pulling up in the church parking lot because some type of a log had drifted over there. So he couldn’t get up in there. He wasn’t happy about going through it,” Leigh said.

In a news release from the school district, the driver was quoted as saying, “The water was overflow from a creek, it was not moving. I know the road and the lay of the land and felt confident that I could safely drive through it without compromising the safety of the students on the bus. And that is what I did. I made the best decision that I could in difficult circumstances.”

Lincoln County Sheriff Curt Folger said a bridge along Gilbert’s Creek Road that washed out in flooding a couple weeks ago appeared to be washed out again Tuesday when he was checking on the area.

At the peak of the flooding, more than 20 roads were made impassable by high water, Folger said. Deputies responded to only two or three calls from people stranded by the flooding, he said.

Photos were also posted on social media by Hustonville residents, which painted a grim picture of that area of the county Tuesday morning, with the Hustonville park completely submerged in water. By 1:30 p.m., however, Mayor David Peyton said he believed things could have been a lot worse.

“No roadways had to be closed and currently, the creek is back in its banks,” Peyton said.

Peyton said the worst was behind them by Tuesday afternoon and added that he was not aware of any issues getting students home from school.

After the last flood, Hustonville Fire Department cleaned up all areas of the park that were disturbed by the high water.

“It looks like we’re going to get to do that again,” Peyton said.

By 2 p.m., rain had stopped falling for the most part, but a total of 3.9 inches had fallen on the area since midnight, according to a Kentucky Mesonet weather station in north Lincoln County. Most of that total fell between midnight and 9 a.m.

Most areas of high water in the county had begun to recede Tuesday afternoon, which presented another set of problems, Gilliam said.

“The problem is that water has to go somewhere,” he said, “so we’re going to have flooding throughout the day where that water levels off and adjusts.”

Gilliam said the Dix River was almost at the road on U.S. 27 North, and areas such as Hanging Fork and Deep Well Woods Road near Crab Orchard were still areas of concern.

“Closer to Crab Orchard, (the river is) already in the road and pushing trash and limbs into the road,” he said.

Gilliam said responders would be focusing on creeks and rivers where the water has nowhere else to run.

mum number of instructional hours — 1,062 — rather than the typically required minimum number of instructional days.

With the newly approved calendar the district will end with 1,092 total instructional hours.

“We’ll still have 30 extra hours,” Smith said.

Senate Bill 119 would have allowed the district to end classes as early as May 29 and still meet the minimum number of instructional hours, but it would mean cutting more instructional days, Smith said.

Smith said if the board was to decide to cut the additional four days and close the year out on May 29, the district would lose transportation and food service reimbursements for those days. Staff would also still be required to work those days.

“Some other things that came into play were with the testing schedules, especially at the high school.

There’s a lot going on there so we didn’t want to pressure the kids,” Smith said.

Graduation for Fort Logan High School Students is planned for the evening of Thursday, June 4, while Lincoln County High School will hold its graduation ceremony on Friday, June 5.

In other business, the board:

- approved the replacement of Lincoln County High School’s football field lights with a down payment of $49,000 and a five-year payment of $19,105.27 annually. Technology coordinator Darren Yaden said the five-year plan would cost about $10,000 total in interest.

- approved permission to begin the BG1 process for Hustonville Elementary School’s roof replacement. Yaden discussed the possibility of using metal roofing materials, which he said would be very cost-effective. The board discussed replacing the left wing, library and gym portions of the roof.

Lincoln BOE reviews concept drawings for office renovation

By Abigail Whitehouse
awhitehouse@centralkynews.com

STANFORD – Plans for recovering or rebuilding the central office annex building on Danville Avenue that was destroyed by fire last August were presented to the Lincoln County Board of Education during Monday’s special called meeting.

Eric Loy, a representative for the district’s architecture consulting company Sherman Carter Barnhart, offered rough estimates for budgeting and future planning, including concept drawings and potential floor plans.

“As the last few months progressed we’ve kind of had three primary ideas for the board,” Loy said.

The first of the three ideas is to rebuild what was lost to the fire.

The second, is to purchase and renovate the old Food Lion building located north of Stanford, which was discussed at a previous board meeting. The building, which is already being leased by the school district for storage, would be converted into the central office, technology center and large storage area.

Loy said the second idea would also add two classrooms to Stanford Elementary for preschool, convert the existing board office to a principal Early Head Start center and add a cafeteria and kitchen.

The third and latest concept presented to the board is to build a new three-story, 20,000 square-foot building in the front yard of the existing office on Danville Avenue with a renovated entry drive, drop-off points, handicapped parking and a lower-parking structure that is similar to the one that currently exists.

The amount of time needed for construction and renovation varies among the three plans.

“I think one of the thoughts I had, of three ideas, the Food lion would give you the quickest delivery and i know that was discussed before,” he said. “As far as the roof and the building, they’re already there, so you could go straight in and probably cut the construction time in half.”

While the Food Lion renovation would take around six months, Loy said, the other two ideas would take one and a half to two years to be completed.

Board member Marvin Wilson noted the flat structure of the old Food Lion roof is similar to that of Hustonville Elementary School, which the board is currently working to replace.

“With this building here, we’re almost in the same boat as we are in Hustonville, because that’s an older roof up there, and we’re going to be back in that same business of covering this whole roof again,” Wilson said. “That’ll be a part of some more renovation, some more roof, some more trusses.”

Wilson added that he thinks the first-floor basement structure of the third plan would make a great tornado shelter.

“Yes it would be. Well over two-thirds of it would be underground,” Loy said.

The second-floor layout of that same plan features space for several offices such as superintendent, payroll and special education offices, as well as a health clinic located towards the back of the building.

“There’s a main stair there in the lobby that would take you up to the third floor, which is a lobby going into a new board meeting room,” Loy said. “You can kind of see how we were trying to open up a nice entry to the building that’s clearly visible from Danville Road as people are going into Stanford. It would also be lit at night so people on Danville Road driving by would look in, and it would be very open and welcoming.”

The cost of rebuilding what was destroyed by fire, with some additions, has an estimated cost of $7,998,000, while the second plan’s cost is estimated at $5,262,220 and the third at $5,464,300.

One advantage of the Food Lion location was brought up by several members of the audience, as it is situated to be near AT&T’s fiber-optic lines – something that was discussed during last year’s October school board meeting. The location would create an ideal environment for a technology hub.

The board did not take any action but agreed to review each of the projections provided by Loy.

“We’ll do some studying and looking over it,” Chairman Tom Blankenship said.

Rain forces cancellation of LCHS sports

By Nancy Leedy

Monday night's and Tuesday's steady rain across central Kentucky forced changes for numerous Lincoln County High School sporting events Tuesday afternoon: they all were canceled.

Baseball and tennis played through Monday's rain, but rainfall in excess of 3 inches since Monday evening resulted in the stoppage of all outdoor activities Tuesday.

Saturated diamonds meant the cancellation of the Bat Patriots' baseball game with Anderson County and the Lady Patriots' softball game at Boyle County.

It was the second straight rain cancellation for the LCHS softball team. On Monday, coach Kevin Bandura and his Lady Patriot team were en route to a game at Pulaski County when he got the call that the game had been cancelled.

Wet tennis courts and poor track conditions kept both the Lincoln tennis teams and track and field teams home Tuesday, with the tennis match at Mercer County and the track meet at Southwestern called off.

Rain and thunderstorms are in the forecast for today (Thursday) but, if the weather holds off, the following sporting events are scheduled today:

— Lincoln Bat Patriots play host to Danville at 5:30 p.m.

— Lady Patriot softball hosts Berea at 6 p.m.

— Lady Patriot and Patriot tennis teams will host McCreary Central on Baughman Courts at LCHS.

LINCOLN COUNTY'S Landrea Smith has her eye on the ball as she moves up for a return in the Lady Patriots' match with West Jessamine Monday at LCHS. Smith and Peyton Lewis played at the one seed in doubles for the Lincoln girls and put up a strong fight before falling 8-4 to West's Lauren Kines and Rashes Seals.

Lincoln tennis teams fall in rain-shortened match

By Nancy Leedy

STANFORD — The Lincoln County tennis teams struggled with the wet weather and their opponents Monday, with both the Lady Patriots and Patriots falling 5-0 to visiting West Jessamine in the rain.

As a rule, tennis matches are canceled when steady rains fall because the balls become wet and heavy and the courts can become very slippery. But, with several previous matches already called due to the weather, Lincoln coach Allen Lewis said he and West Jessamine coaches Lundy Sparks and Jessica Dye decided to play on.

"We really needed to get the match in," Lewis said. "We have played six matches this season and West has only played four. The radar looked like we had time, but after the doubles matches it started raining."

Trying to get ahead of the rain, the match started with doubles competition, with just two matches played in boys and girls instead of the usual three.

The Lady Patriots challenged the Lady Colts in doubles, with Landrea Smith and Peyton Lewis getting four games on Lauren Kines and Rashes Seal before falling 8-4 at one and Brianna McKenzie and Mallorie Cooper winning five games in an 8-5 loss to Sarah Wittin and Britt Figman at two.

But West Jessamine had already started to set the tone of the match, rolling 4-0 through doubles. The Colts and Lady Colts easily corralled Lincoln the rest of the way, losing just three more games over the next six singles matches.

The Patriots won two of the three singles games, with Connor Playforth falling 6-1 to Isaac Horne at two and Ryan Wilson defeated by Jacob Senters 6-1 at three. Kaitlyn Lane was the only Lady Pat taking a game in singles. She got the game in her 6-1 loss to West Jessamine's Katie Mitchell at the one seed.

Lewis said experience factored heavily in Lincoln's loss to West Jessamine.

"West is a senior-dominated team in both boys and girls. They play well," he said. "I'm very proud of my girls doubles tonight battling really hard. Both

Lady Pats fall short in opener of own inaugural invitational

LINCOLN LEADOFF Kristen Meece had a hit and a walk in the Lady Patriots' 6-4 loss to Conner Friday in the Lincoln County Invitational. Meece tagged a double in the first inning. She walked on in the sixth and scored on a bases-loaded walk.

STANFORD — The Lady Patriot softball team had hopes of christening its inaugural invitational with a victory, but could not deliver the win.

Despite scoring four straight runs in their final at-bat, the Lady Patriots could not overcome the early offensive blitz by Connor and fell 6-4 to the Lady Cougars on the first day of the first Lincoln County Invitational at Veterans Park.

"I'm really proud of our kids for battling," Lincoln coach Kevin Bandura said. "We got down 6-0 and there are games in the past that that 6-0 lead looks like 100-0, but we did a great job of staying in it."

"Credit our kids. They didn't hang their heads. They battled back and ended up playing very, very well."

Lincoln (4-3) loaded up the bases quickly in the bottom of the sixth to start the late rally.

Leadoff batter Kristen Meece led off the inning with a walk off Conner reliever Ashlee Jones, Hannah Brown reached on an infield single and Madisen Hinkle singled to right field. Jaylan Sowders earned a bases-loaded walk off Jones to score Meece, then Chyna Dyehouse stepped up to send everyone else home. The sophomore batter, who had two of Lincoln's eight hits in the game, connected for a one-out double to centerfield to plate Brown, Hinkle and Sowders to make it 6-4.

"Chyna hit the ball really, really hard. She hit it deep enough that all the runners scored. In the end, it wasn't enough for the win, but she got a big hit when we really needed it," Bandura said.

Dyehouse's RBI-double brought Jones' time on the mound to an end, and starter Elizabeth Sims re-entered the game.

Lincoln's potential comeback ended with Sims' return, though, as she got Abby Sparkman and Kelsey Meece both to fly out to end the inning — and the game, with the game's 90-minute time limit expired.

Coffman, Ayers, Stewart, Crusenberry win in season opener at Ponderosa

JUNCTION CITY – Ponderosa Speedway kicked off its 43rd season of racing Friday, and feature event winners for the evening included Todd Coffman of Parksville in Pro Late Models, J.T. Ayers of New Haven in Modifieds, Eddie Stewart of Manchester KDRA Super Stocks and Scott Crusenberry of Williamsburg in Mini-Cup/Cyclones.

Todd Coffman and Zane Powell battled in the early stages of the 20-lap Pro Late Model main event, with Coffman securing the lead for good on lap 3 and driving away over the latter portion of the contest. The 2014 track champion scored the victory in his #35 car, with Powell rolling in in the runner-up position. Gary Yeager claimed third in the event, with Darrell Gaddis in fourth and Matthew Smith, fifth.

It was also a two-man battle for first in the 20-lap Modified main event, with Jeff Watson and J.T. Ayers challenging each other for the win. The two drivers raced side-by-side for the lead from lap 4 until lap 11 of the race, but Ayers took the lead from Watson in turn two on lap 12 and drove away to the win. Ayers, a former track champion in the class, in his #28 mount. Wade Rookard slipped around Watson on a late-race restart to claim second, and Joseph Husband finished fourth.

Eddie Stewart found himself in a battle for first place in the first two laps of the 15-lap KDRA Super Stock main event before snatching the lead away from Jamey Adams on lap 3 and driving on to victory in his #119 car. Adams finished second, Derek Bottoms held off Jeremy Howard for third and Bartley Grant ran fifth.

The Mini-Cup/Cyclone division made its debut at Ponderosa Friday evening with five entries, and Scott Crusenberry claimed the first win in the division’s 10-lap main event. Jason Bell claimed the second-place spot, Tim Crusenberry finished third, Josh Dickerson was fourth and Michael Wallin Jr. was fifth.

Super Late Models were also scheduled to compete, but there were only four drivers with cars in attendance and those drivers agreed to have open practice laps during various portions of the program. They were Dustin Linville, Brad Neat, Timmy Taylor, and J.L. Muse.

A summary of Friday’s racing follows:

Bat Patriots go 2-2

CODY LUNS福德, shown getting hit by a pitch, and his Bat Patriot teammates went 2-2 on the diamond this past week, going 1-2 in the 3-day Warren County Invitational at Bowling Green then returning home to edge Madison Southern. Lincoln (7-6) made an impressive showing in its first game of the Warren County Invitational, thumping Warren East 13-2 in five innings Thursday. But the Bat Patriots could not keep the winning going, with Bowling Green beating Lincoln 6-2 on Friday and McLean County edging the Pats 4-3 on Saturday. Lincoln was back at home Monday night playing host to Madison Southern. It was a close contest in the rain, but the Bat Pats managed to clip the Eagles 5-4.

Kentucky Afield Outdoors: Streams, small-mouth bass fishing will return to normal

FRANKFORT — Many of us who remember the March 1997 floods in Kentucky recently had uncomfortable pangs of foreboding as storm systems dropped heavy amounts of rain freight-trained across the state. It looked like another 1997 for a day or so. Small, normally docile neighborhood creeks suddenly filled basements, eroded roadways and carried away belongings. Lexington set an April record for rainfall over the span of one day. “The biggest problem from all of this rain is not only is the flow too high to fish, but it will take awhile for the clarity to come back,” said David Baker, stream biologist for the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources. “Temperatures are in the mid-to high 50s on some streams, so it will soon be a good time for fishing. We just need a little more time.” Baker believes small-mouth bass waters lying downstream of major lakes such as Green River or Barren River will likely be blown out for a considerable time. Smaller streams clear and return to normal much quicker than larger streams and make the best option for smallmouth bass right now. “This is a time when you can catch some of the biggest stream smallmouth of the year as they prepare to spawn,” Baker said. “They are a little more accessible and easier to catch.” Wading is an excellent way to fish smaller streams for smallmouth bass, especially after the recent high water events likely undercut many streamside trees, tipping them over into the stream, providing potentially dangerous impediments to paddling. The streams in south-central Kentucky near Bowling Green in the Barren River drainage such as the Gasper River and the Drakes Creek system are good places to try. “The Gasper usually will come down pretty quickly,” Baker said. “We do see smallmouths up to 18 inches and we get reports of 20 inchers from Gasper.” Baker said the Drakes Creek system drains a large geographical area in karst topography and takes longer to flow out, but contains a healthy population of smallmouth bass from 12 to 16 inches long, with a few in the 18-inch range. The Drakes Creek system and Gasper River are part of the Warren County Blueways, a cooperative project from governmental agencies, Western Kentucky University and other groups to provide access to streams in south-central Kentucky. The website at www.trailsrus.com/blueways/ contains good information on access points with a detailed map. Baker said those streams flowing through public land in eastern Kentucky provide productive wading fishing opportunities for smallmouths. The Middle Fork of the Red River inside Natural Bridge State Resort Park in Powell County holds a decent population of smallmouth bass with good access. Rock Creek inside the Daniel Boone National Forest in McCreary County offers wading anglers easy access with roads paralleling the creek for most of its length. The best fishing is upstream of Rock Creek’s junction with White Oak Creek. Rock Creek is known as one of Kentucky’s true mountain trout streams, but the creek holds a stable population of smallmouth bass. The Russell Fork in Pike County offers several productive public wading spots for smallmouths. The public river access at Ratliff Hole (also known as Potters Ford) inside the boundaries of Breaks Interstate Park on KY 80 south of Elkhorn City makes one of the most scenic wading spots in Kentucky. Wading anglers may also access the Russell Fork at Carson Island Access via Carson Island Road off KY 80, just east of Elkhorn City. The Elkhorn City Park in downtown Elkhorn City grants anglers public wading access to a productive stretch of the Russell Fork. Elkhorn Creek in Franklin County fishes well even when the water is up a bit. Anglers may wade fish the Elkhorn at T.N. Sullivan Wildlife Management Area off KY 1262 and at the two Voluntary Public Access spots near the junction of Peaks Mill Road (KY 1900) and KY 1262. All the lures you need for a successful wade easily fit inside a cigar box. A pack of 1/8-ounce leadheads, some black finesse worms, a bag of green-pumpkin tube baits along with a bag of 4-inch Senko type soft plastic jerkbaits in the same color all catch stream smallmouths. Add a floating/diving minnow lure like a Rapala and you’re set. “Look for gravelly bottoms adjacent to the current,” Baker said. “A lot of times you can see the smallmouths in spring. Pitch a tube or soft plastic bait rigged on a leadhead near them and they will attack. Also, work areas adjacent to current with a soft plastic jerkbait or a floating/diving minnow for smallmouths. The thing I love most about smaller streams is that any cast can be a good one.” For more information about smallmouth streams in Kentucky, visit the Kentucky Fish and Wildlife website at www.fw.ky.gov. Click on the “Fish” tab, followed by the “Recreational Fishing” tab and then the “Kentucky Smallmouth Streams” tab under the “Where to Fish” banner. The license year expired Feb. 28, so remember to purchase your fishing license before fishing this year.

Maines reached second and went on to score as the Lady Cougars took a 6-0 lead. Sowders scored the last of Lincoln’s four sixth-inning runs in the 6-4 loss Friday night in the Lincoln County Invitational. LADY PATS

“Short game in terms of time, but our kids did what they needed to do,” said Bandura. “They created enough nervousness on their part to make them put their starting pitcher back in. They didn’t want to do that.”

Conner, the only undefeated team entering the invitational, went to work on preserving its perfect record early, scoring all of its runs in the first and second innings off seven hits.

Sims, who allowed just three hits with five strikeouts while on the mound, got the Lady Cougar offense going in the top of the first, connecting for a triple to plate Kayci Mattlin and Kayla Ellis. Mattlin reached on a single and Ellis had a double. Alexia Snelbaker, Sims’ catcher, followed Sims’ hit with an RBI-single to make it a 3-0 ballgame.

Bethany Maines, Jenna Hicks and Mattlin added a run apiece in the top of the second to extend Conner’s lead to 6-0. Maines scored on a fielding error, Hicks, who reached on that error, was driven in by Mattlin, and Ellis doubled to left center-field to send Mattlin home.

“I thought early we showed a little bit of rust,” Bandura said. “We’ve only played one game in the past couple weeks. There’s a couple balls that we probably make those plays normally, and we were just a little bit tight, a little bit rusty from not having played.”

“Give Conner credit. They did a really good job of hitting the ball to right field early. They had great patience at the plate and really made every pitch,” he said. “Sydney (Slone) had a tough go of it because they worked her really, really hard, and they forced her to throw the ball in the strike zone. They did a great job of hitting the ball to the opposite field.”

Conner (6-0) got 10 hits off Slone and reliever McKenzie Hensley. Slone allowed six runs off seven hits with one walk. Hensley gave up three hits.

“McKenzie Hensley did a great job of coming in and keeping them off balance and shutting them down. I’m really proud of her,” said Bandura.

Lincoln did not get a runner past second base until the sixth inning. Kristen Meece and Hinkle both got to second in the first inning but did not score and Dyehouse reached second in the fifth inning.

“Chyna hit the ball hard, Kaycie Bandura had a big hit, Jenna King did a good job in that nine-hole, Jaylan Sowders hit the ball hard, Madisen Hinkle hit the ball hard, so we had a lot of hard hits tonight. Conner just made some plays defensively,” Bandura said. “Give our guys credit for battling and not giving in. That’s a really, good team over there. That’s a district champion from last year. They’ve got a senior pitcher and they’re very solid up the middle. It’s just one of those things. Maybe if we had one more inning, who knows what happens.”

Conner wins first Lincoln Invitational

The Lady Cougars of Conner walked away with the champions’ trophy in the inaugural Lincoln County Invitational, completing their sweep of the competition with a 6-3 win over Atherton in the title game Saturday at Veterans Park.

Conner (9-0) began its march to the title on Friday with a 6-4 win over host Lincoln County. Letcher County Central was the next team to bow to Conner, as the Lady Cougars rolled 11-1.

And the Lady Cougars continued with their winning ways on Saturday. They defeated Atherton 9-2 in the morning game to set up an afternoon rematch in the championship game.

girls doubles teams played very well tonight.”

Doubles play progressed without any stoppage Monday, but there was a brief rain delay during singles competition.

“We let the players playing (singles) at the time finish and then talked about stopping, but we allowed the last two singles players to go out and start. By that time, the rain had stopped, but the courts were very wet,” Lewis said. “I would never want to play with the slick courts, but West Jessamine drove a while to get there, and we were so close to finishing that we allowed the match to finish.”

But the match did not proceed without a word of warning from Lewis.

“The (wet) conditions change everything, from your approach to the ball to avoid sliding, to the ball being heavier because it is wet. We told our players to not make any sudden movements to try and avoid any injury.”

The Lincoln tennis teams were scheduled to be back in action Tuesday afternoon, but rain ended up canceling the match with Mercer County. Rain in excess of 3 inches soaked Lincoln County and surrounding areas forcing the cancellation of all sporting events.

Results from the Lincoln-West Jessamine match follow:

West Jessamine at Lincoln Girls

West Jess. (WJ) 5, Lincoln (LC) 0 Singles

No. 1 — Katie Mitchell (WJ) def. Kaitlyn Lane (LC) 6-1; No. 2 — Emily Ingram (WJ) def. Belle Griffin (LC) 6-0;

LINCOLN tennis players Roland Taylor, left, and Zane Gosser listen to their coach Allen Lewis as they change ends of the courts in their match with West Jessamine’s Nick Kulaga and Sumner Blue. The Lincoln team dropped the one-seeded match 8-1.

No. 3 — Reilly Johnson (WJ) def. Alyssa Shofner (LC) 6-0.

Doubles

No. 1 — Lauren Kines/Rashes Seals (WJ) def. Landrea Smith/Peyton Lewis (LC) 8-4; No. 2 — Sarah Wittin/Britt Figman (WJ) def. Brianna McKenzie/Mallorie Cooper (LC) 8-5.

LCHS to ‘Tarzan’ musical

The Lincoln County High School chorus department will perform the musical, “Tarzan,” at 7 p.m. Friday and Saturday at the Stuart Underwood Auditorium.

Tickets are $10.
The musical is directed by Johnna Ward and will feature a large cast of high school students.

The musical, based on the popular Disney film “Tarzan,” revolves around the life of Tarzan, who was orphaned as a baby and adopted by gorillas. Tarzan grows up and meets Jane Porter and both of their lives change forever.

The LCHS production will include music written by singer-songwriter Phil Collins.

Yew shrubs kill Lincoln County cattle

By Dan Grigson
U.K. Extension Agent for Agriculture and Natural Resources

In the past three weeks, four farmers have found out the hard way that yews (Taxus spp.) are extremely toxic to cattle. A few overgrown bushes were removed from a landscape one afternoon and put into a brush pile in a pasture area. The intention was to burn them once all were dried. The next morning nine cattle in the pasture were dead. Plant material submitted to the lab was identified as Japanese yew (Taxus cuspidata). Another farmer had 13 steers die quickly. In this case a neighbors taxus yews had grown through the line fence. The steers ate the limbs and died. The U.K. Diagnostic Lab confirmed these deaths caused by the taxus. The other two farmers have similar stories.

Taxus is the genus that includes numerous forms of evergreen shrubs or trees used in the landscape. Common species include Canada yew, English yew, Japanese yew, and Anglojap yew. Cultivars of the Anglojap yew are some of the most encountered at garden stores.

Yews have linear, sharp-pointed, approximately one-inch long, needle like leaves that are dark green above and yellow green below. Leaves are spirally arranged but generally lie flat on the stem. Flowers are inconspicuous with mildly attractive, red, berry-like fruit.

All parts of yews except the red, fleshy part around the seed, are extremely toxic to cattle and other livestock. The primary toxin is taxine, which is a mixture of alkaloids that act upon the heart and usually result in death of the animal. Uprooted bushes and clipping should never be placed near livestock. Yew is generally not highly palatable to livestock. However, animals are more likely to graze on tender new growth or clippings discarded in a pasture. As little as a mouthful to one pound of yew clippings is sufficient to kill a 1,000 lb. animal in only a few minutes.

Be careful, never let cattle get access to Taxus yew shrubs. If you don't have livestock but your neighbors do, be sure to never throw any kind of shrub material into their pasture and never let your shrubs grow through the fence.

Making sense of changing Burley market

By Dr. Will Snell
U.K. Tobacco Economist

As burley contracts began rolling out over the past two weeks it became obvious that 2015 will be a challenging year for burley tobacco growers. While it appears that contract prices offered by most buyers will be similar to 2014 price schedules, U.S. burley contract volume will be reduced significantly. In reality, 2015 contract volume changes range from small increases for a few growers, to 100 percent reduction for other growers with differences within a given company generally based on historical "scorecard" variables such as delivery percentages and quality factors. Some companies are extending contracts almost exclusively to their multi-year contract growers, resulting in the elimination or sharp reduction in contract volume for single year contract growers while others did offer "across the board" cuts to all contract growers.

In lieu of these abrupt changes, what will the change in U.S. burley acres be for this year? Based on what I am hearing from various individual companies and other buying interests, I could anticipate the call for a 30 to 40 percent or greater reduction in 2015 U.S. burley acres.

What can be made of these abrupt changes after the buying sector was so aggressive in purchasing leaf in the 2013 marketing season and relatively strong prices for 2014 contracted tobacco? Perhaps some of the adjustments can be explained by several of the following factors.

- A global surplus of burley has rapidly materialized over the past 18 months as world burley production has increased by more than 30 percent, while global burley

consumption has declined

- Export demand is extremely weak amidst an abundance of cheaper foreign leaf and an increase in the value of the U.S. dollar making U.S. tobacco more expensive in international markets

- Some buyers overcommitted in purchasing the 2014 U.S. burley crop as demand expectations did not materialize and thus will have to make additional adjustments in 2015 to correct for this imbalance

- The loss in Malawian burley production from recent flooding during the growing season was not as devastating as initially reported

- Current and forecast sales of American blended cigarette sales continue to fall globally

- Tobacco companies realize U.S. growers will overproduce above contract volumes which provides an opportunity to purchase lower priced leaf in the U.S. and globally

- Tobacco companies continue to tighten burley inventories amidst a very uncertain domestic and global regulatory environment along with a small, but rapidly emerging non-combustible (i.e., e-cig,vaping) market

- An excess supply situation provides an opportunity for companies to eliminate lower quality growers or those who have not followed through with their previous contract obligations.

The remaining growers will need to realize that an excess supply market likely results in more critical grading for the 2015 crop and that non-contract tobacco production will be extremely risky and probably not profitable. With anticipated tighter margins, growers will have to place an even greater emphasis on quality, labor efficiency and yield to have a favorable outcome for the 2015 crop.

Land and water conservation a priority for Kentucky farmers on Earth Day and year-round

As the annual Earth Day celebration returns and encourages communities across the country to applaud their local environmental champions, perhaps the search needs not extend further than the nearest family farm. The men and women tending to Kentucky's 77,000 farms are committed to preserving the state's land and water for a healthy return on the seeds they sow and the livestock they raise – for today and generations yet to come.

"Farmers are always on guard to protect the soil and water that is so critical to their livelihood," said Kentucky Farm Bureau (KFB) president Mark Haney. "They very clearly understand that those resources are neither limitless nor inexhaustible."

Kentucky's farmers not only do a great deal to protect the land, but they also strive to make it better. Aside from planting trees and shrubs for windbreaks, preserving and restoring wetland areas, and providing a habitat for many forms of wildlife, many farmers also work diligently to improve the quality of the environment by installing conservation buffers on their farmland. Across the U.S., more than 500,000 farmers have voluntarily enrolled approximately 24 million acres into the nation's Conservation Reserve Program to date, making it the largest public-private partnership for conservation and wildlife habitat in the country.

"Kentucky farmers have embraced this crucial job of safeguarding our land and water," said Haney. "It's a big job that requires close attention, but it's also something that farmers cannot, and will not, overlook."

Today's farmers also embrace advanced methods for managing their land and investing in business services that will help them excel in an environmentally sensitive world. From contour farming and the Kentucky-pioneered no-till farming practices to dead animal composting and complex manure management systems, sound environmental stewardship is a 24/7, year-round job for Kentucky's agricultural producers.

"Nearly every farm organization has also implemented some type of program to encourage cooperative leadership on environmental issues, particularly in regard to water quality," said Haney. "Kentucky Farm Bureau's recently launched Water Management Working Group is one such program that we created to expand the availability of water resources to the state's farmers and our rural and urban communities."

Kentucky has been hit hard by drought in six of the past 15 years, three of which were widespread producers of significant crop and farmland damage. As a very small percentage of Kentucky's cropland is irrigated, water remains a looming critical issue for Kentucky farmers as they seek to feed a growing world population.

To address those conditions, KFB's 20-member Water Management Working Group is currently focused on three main objectives: (1) research the status of water supplies in the state; (2) examine potential action to raise the availability of water to farms; and (3) make recommendations to the appropriate federal, state and private entities. More information about KFB's Water Management Working Group is available at: kyfb.com/water.

"If Americans really want our nation to 'go green' on Earth Day," concluded Haney, "then we should all support the world's original green industry: agriculture."

Do's, don'ts and maybe's for springtime lawn care

The first hint of spring weather often brings a burst of energy many of us work off in our yards. However, we can waste time and money by spending this energy on tasks that shouldn't be done in the springtime. Let me give you some timely advice on do's and don'ts on lawn care.

Spring is not a good time to fertilize lawns or treat for white grubs. Applying nitrogen in the spring forces more top growth and less root growth. This increases the frequency you'll need to mow the lawn and makes grass less tolerant to heat and drought stress. Spring fertilization also creates more problems with warm season weeds (crabgrass, foxtail, nutsedge, bermudagrass, and nimblewill) because you're feeding weeds as they break dormancy; then, these weeds might dominate your bluegrass or fescue lawn grass.

As with most rules, there is an exception. If the lawn wasn't fertilized late last fall, an early spring nitrogen application will help "jump start" and "green up" a lawn. But you might be sorry if you have to mow the lawn every three or four days during April and May. It's best to skip fertilizing now, but go ahead and put a note on your calendar to remind you to fertilize in mid-November.

A spring or summer insecticide application for white grub treatment usually is a waste of time and money. White grub feeding in the spring does minimal, if any, harm since grass is actively growing and fights off the damage. Even if you apply an insecticide in the spring to kill grubs, enough Japanese and masked-chaffer beetles are around to re-infest later in the season when grass is growing less actively and grub feeding does more damage. If you considered white grubs a serious problem last fall, you might want to treat with one of the new residual insecticides this June or July.

If crabgrass was a problem last year, apply a pre-emergence herbicide from mid-April to late April to eliminate crabgrass before it becomes ugly and competes with the lawn grass. An alternative is to apply a post-emergence product in June or early July. Remember, post-emergence herbicides are more difficult to use and more likely to burn desirable grass. It's best to apply a pre-emergence herbicide for crabgrass control now.

If you're trying to control broadleaf weeds like dandelion, chickweed, plantains, henbit, wild strawberry and ground ivy, use a post-emergence broadleaf weed herbicide which will usually be a 2, 4-D brand product.

It's best to apply a post-emergence broadleaf weed herbicide in addition to your herbicide for crabgrass, because a pre-emergence crabgrass herbicide won't prevent most broadleaf weeds from becoming established. Apply the post-emergence herbicide when broadleaf weeds are actively growing. Do not spray it when the wind is blowing or when the temperature is 85 to 90 degrees Fahrenheit because you can damage other plants within your yard or garden. Spot treat with a ready-mix aerosol or foam product when the temperature is too hot for a more general application.

NOTICE OF ENACTMENT AND SUMMARY OF BOND ORDINANCE

ORDINANCE OF THE CITY OF STANFORD, KENTUCKY, AUTHORIZING AND PROVIDING FOR THE ISSUANCE AND SALE OF $750,000 PRINCIPAL AMOUNT OF CITY OF STANFORD WATER AND SEWER REVENUE BONDS, SERIES 2015 (DANVILLE STREET WATER SYSTEM IMPROVEMENTS PROJECT) FOR THE PURPOSE OF FINANCING THE COST (NOT OTHERWISE PROVIDED) OF THE CONSTRUCTION OF EXTENSIONS, ADDITIONS AND IMPROVEMENTS TO THE EXISTING WATER AND SEWER SYSTEM OF SAID CITY; SETTING FORTH TERMS AND CONDITIONS UPON WHICH SAID BONDS MAY BE ISSUED AND OUTSTANDING; PROVIDING FOR THE COLLECTION, SEGREGATION AND DISTRIBUTION OF THE REVENUES OF SAID WATER AND SEWER SYSTEM; AND PROVIDING FOR AN ADVERTISED, PUBLIC, COMPETITIVE SALE OF SAID BONDS.

As required by KRS 83A.060(9), I hereby certify that an Ordinance bearing the above title was given first reading (by Title and Summary) by the City Council of the City of Stanford Kentucky, at a duly convened meeting of said City Council held on April 2, 2015, and was given second reading (by Title and Summary) and enacted at a duly convened meeting held on April 9, 2015, and that the following is a Summary of such Ordinance prepared by W. Randall Jones, of the firm of Rubin & Hays, Attorneys at Law, Louisville, Kentucky. (Signed W. Randall Jones)

SUMMARY OF ORDINANCE

Said Ordinance authorizes the issuance of $750,000 of City of Stanford Water and Sewer Revenue Bonds, Series 2015 (the "Bonds"), for the purpose of financing the cost (not otherwise provided) of the construction of the Project referred to in said title; authorizes interim financing to pay the costs of said Project pending the issuance of the Bonds; designates Engineers for the Project and the depository bank of the proceeds of the Bonds and of certain funds to be maintained in connection with the Bonds; provides for a Sinking Fund for the payment of principal and interest on the Bonds, an Operation and Maintenance Fund, and a Depreciation Fund; provides that said Bonds are secured by a pledge of the gross revenues of the System; establishes the method of payment of the principal of and interest on the Bonds, and the conditions and restrictions for the issuance of bonds ranking on a parity with the Bonds; provides certain covenants of the City for the further protection of the holders of the Bonds, including covenants as to compliance with the Internal Revenue Code; and prescribes terms and conditions upon which bids will be received for the purchase of the Bonds.

A copy of the full text of said Ordinance is available for public inspection during regular business hours, Monday through Friday. (Signed) Sheila Hopkins, City Clerk, City of Stanford, Kentucky 40484.

COMMONWEALTH OF KENTUCKY CITY OF HUSTONVILLE ORDINANCE NO. 65

AN ORDINANCE CREATING A FRANCHISE FOR THE ERECTION, LAYING AND MAINTENANCE OF ELECTRIC FACILITIES AND APPURTENANT FACILITIES AND EQUIPMENT IN, ALONG AND ACROSS THE PUBLIC WAYS, ROADS, STREETS, ALLEYS AND OTHER PUBLIC PLACES IN THE CITY OF HUSTONVILLE, KENTUCKY; FOR FURNISHING AND SELLING ELECTRICITY BY MEANS OF SAID FACILITIES; AND PROVIDING FOR THE SALE OF SAID FRANCHISE.

WHEREAS, the City of Hustonville ("City") wishes to ensure that electric service continues to be furnished to its citizens in a reliable and efficient manner;

WHEREAS, the City is aware that the provision of such service requires the continued use of public streets, ways, alleys and other public places;

WHEREAS, the franchise granted to and acquired by Kentucky Utilities Company on August 1, 1995, under which that utility provided such service, will expire by its terms; August 1, 2015.

WHEREAS, the City wishes to provide for the sale of a new franchise for the benefit of its citizenry, giving effect to Section 96.010 of the Kentucky Revised Statutes;

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT ORDAINED as follows:
Section 1. An exclusive franchise ("Franchise") to use the City's public rights-of-way, as described in the Franchise Agreement attached to this Ordinance, is hereby created.

Section 2. The Franchise created by this Ordinance shall be bid in accordance with the applicable requirements of the Constitution of the Commonwealth of Kentucky and Chapter 424 of the Kentucky Revised Statutes, as well as any applicable City ordinances.

Section 3. The Franchise created by this Ordinance shall be awarded to the highest and best bidder as shall be determined by the City in its sole discretion. In awarding the Franchise, the City shall consider the technical, managerial, and financial qualifications of the bidder to perform its obligations under the Franchise.

Section 4. The winning bidder and the City shall negotiate, execute and be bound by a Franchise Agreement with terms identical to, or substantially identical to, the Franchise Agreement referenced in Section 1 above and attached hereto, such Agreement to contain terms "that are fair and reasonable to the City, to the purchaser of the Franchise and to the patrons of the utility" (KRS Section 96.010). Such Franchise Agreement shall take effect no earlier than 90 days after its execution, to allow the City and the winning bidder to develop appropriate procedures for identifying and reviewing the electric-consuming entities within the City's corporate limits.

Section 5. All ordinances or parts of ordinances in conflict with the provisions of this Ordinance are hereby repealed.

Section 6. Should any section, clause, line, paragraph, or part of this Ordinance or the attached Agreement be held unconstitutional or invalid for any reason, the same shall not affect the remainder of this Ordinance or the attached Agreement, as applicable.

Section 7. Time is of the essence in carrying out the terms and the provisions of this Ordinance and the Franchise created herein.

Section 8. This Ordinance shall become effective from and after its passage and publication. Read at a meeting of the Hustonville City Council on the 3rd day of March, 2015; a second reading was held on the 7th day of April, 2015; said Ordinance was READ and APPROVED on the 7th day of April, 2015.

INDEPENDENT AUDITOR'S REPORT

Honorable Mayor and Members of the City Council
City of Hustonville, Kentucky

Report on the Financial Statements

I have audited the accompanying financial statements of the governmental activities, the business-type activities, and each major fund of the City of Hustonville, Kentucky as of and for the year ended June 30, 2014, and the related notes to the financial statements, which collectively comprise the City's basic financial statements as listed in the table of contents.

Management's Responsibility for the Financial Statements

Management is responsible for the preparation and fair presentation of these financial statements in accordance with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America; this includes the design, implementation, and maintenance of internal control relevant to the preparation and fair presentation of financial statements that are free from material misstatement, whether due to fraud or error.

Auditor's Responsibility

My responsibility is to express opinions on these financial statements based on my audit. I conducted my audit in accordance with auditing standards generally accepted in the United States of America and the standards applicable to financial audits contained in Government Auditing Standards, issued by the Comptroller General of the United States. Those standards require that I plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statements are free from material misstatement. An audit involves performing procedures to obtain audit evidence about the amounts and disclosures in the financial statements. The procedures selected depend on the auditor's judgment, including the assessment of the risks of material misstatement of the financial statements, whether due to fraud or error. In making those risk assessments, the auditor considers internal control relevant to the entity's preparation and fair presentation of the financial statements in order to design audit procedures that are appropriate in the circumstances, but not for the purpose of expressing an opinion on the effectiveness of the entity's internal control. Accordingly, I express no such opinion. An audit also includes evaluating the appropriateness of accounting policies used and the reasonableness of significant accounting estimates made by management, as well as evaluating the overall presentation of the financial statements. I believe that the audit evidence I have obtained is sufficient and appropriate to provide a basis for my audit opinions.

Opinions

In my opinion, the financial statements referred to above present fairly, in all material respects, the respective financial position of the governmental activities, the business-type activities, each major fund, and the respective budgetary comparison for the general fund of the City of Hustonville, Kentucky as of June 30, 2014, and the respective changes in financial position, and, where applicable, cash flows thereof, for the year then ended in accordance with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America.

Other Matters

Required Supplementary Information

Management has omitted the Management's Discussion and Analysis that accounting principles generally, accepted in the United States of America requires to be presented to supplement the basic financial statements. Such missing information, although not a part of the basic financial statements, is required by the Governmental Accounting Standards Board who considers it to be an essential part of financial reporting for placing the basic financial statements in an appropriate operational, economic, or historical context. My opinion on the basic financial statements is not affected by this missing information.

Other Reporting Required by Government Auditing Standards

In accordance with Government Auditing Standards, I have also issued my report dated February 19, 2015, on my consideration of the City of Hustonville, Kentucky's internal control over financial reporting and on my tests of its compliance with certain provisions of laws, regulations, contracts, and grant agreements and other matters. The purpose of that report is to describe the scope of my testing of internal control over financial reporting and compliance and the results of that testing, and not to provide an opinion on internal control over financial reporting or on compliance. That report is an integral part of an audit performed in accordance with Government Auditing Standards in considering the City of Hustonville, Kentucky's internal control over financial reporting and compliance.

Money Tips for Students

Save money by taking more classes each semester

Taking more classes each semester may help you cut the cost of college, according to the Kentucky Higher Education Assistance Authority (KHEAA). That's especially important if, like many people, you'll need student loans to help pay for your education.

A full-time load for undergraduate students is generally considered 12 credit hours per semester. Associate's degrees usually require 60 credit hours to finish, bachelor's degrees 120 hours. If you take 12 hours each semester, you'll need five semesters to finish an associate's degree and 10 semesters to finish a bachelor's degree.

But if you take 15 hours per semester, you'll finish an associate's degree in four semesters and a bachelor's degree in eight semesters. Most colleges won't charge you any more for 15 hours than they do for 12 hours, which can save you hundreds, perhaps thousands, of dollars in tuition and fees.

When you're planning your schedule, think about taking that extra class each semester. The sooner you earn your degree, the sooner you can start job hunting.

KHEAA is the state agency that administers Kentucky's grant and scholarship programs, including the Kentucky Educational Excellence Scholarship (KEES). It provides financial literacy videos at <http://itsmoney.kheaa.com>. KHEAA also provides free copies of "It's Money, Baby," a guide to financial literacy, to Kentucky schools and residents upon request at publications@kheaa.com.

To learn how to plan and prepare for higher education, go to www.gotocollege.ky.gov. For more information about Kentucky scholarships and grants, visit www.kheaa.com; write KHEAA, P.O. Box 798, Frankfort, KY 40602; or call 800-928-8926, ext. 6-7372.
